About Us...

National Bankcard Monitor was established in November, 2009. The company was founded with more than 30 years experience in the consumer credit industry and primarily focused only on consumer household budgeting and credit card debt.

Over the past 30 years, the consumer credit industry has changed dramatically and so have the laws and regulations for this industry. The end result hasn't changed much at all though, the consumer who carries a balance on credit cards still finds it incredibly difficult to pay those balances off.

In our years of experience, we've had many clients asking for direction or help with other debts like mortgages, car loans, student loans, personal loans and lines of credit.

Recently, we launched a product that is a first in the industry, designed specifically for clients who carry debt in many different product vehicles, but more importantly, a product that is actually good for the consumer who has reasonably good credit.

In today's market place, most products that help a client reduce their debts are designed to help, but often come with the penalty of damaged credit histories. Debt Consolidation, Debt Settlement and Debt Management programs will all negatively impact a consumer's credit. But for the consumer who is falling behind or can't make their current payments, these products are a reasonable solution.

However, consumers who can make their payments on time and who value their good credit have had very little tools or programs that could help.

National Bankcard Monitor has developed an answer for these consumers, people with decent credit, who want to become debt free. Over 30 years of industry experience sets National Bankcard Monitor apart from the rest.

We're a company who cares about your credit as much as you do, who wants every client to have the opportunity to become debt free, to do it WITHOUT any increase in current payments.

About the Founder

National Bankcard Monitor was founded by Gino Niccoli in 2009. Gino grew up in SoCal and always wanted for success in life, in all things. He dropped out of high school and decided to study marketing in a working in environment rather than school.

He founded several companies over the years, all failed miserably until 1996. Then, he started a company designed to help people lower their interest rates on their debt, which went hand in hand with his studies and teaching people how to be successful.

That company went on to be his first million dollar a year company. But, with success came more opportunity to learn. His big discovery was that making more money didn't mean you had any more money. He found that it went out just as quickly as it came in and soon he found himself struggling to make ends meet.

By 2000 Gino was well known for his ability to teach people success and by 2003, he and a friend started a company specifically intent on teaching more people how to find success financially. That company was On Stage Marketing, which became a multi-million dollar company. In fact, even today, you can search 'Gino Niccoli' on Google and find tremendous information about these ventures.

But, as Gino taught more people how to become successful, he found himself focusing more on how to teach people how to keep each level of success so a person would never have to go backwards.

It was this desire that led to National Bankcard Monitor. Gino founded the company on the principle of teaching people how to become debt free, no matter what your income. Today, with the U.S. mired in debt it may take decades to pay down, the opportunity to teach more people to manage their own debt has become an even more valuable skill than ever before.

If we can't put our own house in order, how can we expect our government, run by the people for the people, to put its' house in order?

Gino spent tens of thousands of dollars and more than a year developing software that could show anyone how to become debt free, without spending any more money per month to do it and then how to stay that way so more money you make can be saved or used to grow your personal net worth.

Today, National Bankcard Monitor is also a multi-million dollar company, and has help thousands of people take control of their debt, without doing debt settlement, without damaging their credit, without turning over their finances to anyone and without, most importantly, without anyone having to make more money.

You can become debt free and the software program through National Bankcard Monitor can help because it was developed by people who care, people who had to find these same answers themselves and people who want everyone to have a secure financial future. The uncertainty of today's economic environment combined with questions of Social Security stability, shrinking pension plans and poor investment choices means this product stands alone as a solution anyone can use to guarantee themselves a much brighter future. Gino isn't just an owner, he's a client. The software he developed will save him over $55,000.00 just by following his own plan.

Don't wait. Learn to become debt free starting today with a company that will help you get there every step of the way.
