DID YOU KNOW?

The Credit Card Act of 2009 enacted sweeping reform but how can it help you?

- The new law limits when credit card issuers can increase interest rates on existing card balances.
- Consumers whose interest rates are increased may get rate reductions after six months if they pay bills on time and don't exceed their limits.
- Consumers must be given the option to opt in to over-limit fees.
- Credit card companies may not charge additional fees to pay their bills by mail or electronic transfer.
