Web Site Terms and Conditions for Use

The information and materials made available on this Web site have been prepared by Spire Law Group, LLP for general informational purposes only and should not be construed as legal advice on any subject matter, or to answer any specific legal problems you may have. You are specifically told that the Firm recommends you retain separate counsel prior to changing any of your positions based upon material located on this Web site.

The Firm engages in Civil Rights litigation and has a history of doing so. The Firm is currently battling the State and United States governments for violations of civil rights in high profile and pending cases. You and your counsel should carefully evaluate this situation before hiring the Firm. For some persons, they specifically wish to hire the Firm because they understand the corruption. Other clients wish to avoid retention of a Firm going "toe to toe" with the government. You should consult independent counsel of your choice so that you can make an intelligent decision about retaining the Firm. The Firm's clients wish the Firm to expose corruption and civil rights violations. The Firm is disinterested in representing clients who conflict with this Firm-wide intention and concentration.

While we try to ensure the accuracy of the information, we cannot guarantee that all of the information is accurate. You should be aware that the law is constantly changing and varies by circumstance. Therefore, information on a given law or legal issue may not be current or apply to your particular situation. You should not act or refrain from acting upon this information without seeking the advice or professional counsel in your geographic area. Viewing and use of the information on this Web site does not create an attorney-client relationship between you and Mitchell J. Stein & Associates.

This Web site constitutes attorney advertisement. Prior successes — whether by the Firm or by other lawyers — are not a guarantee of future results. The outcome of litigation and transactional negotiations are inherently uncertain. This Web site is not intended to create, and nothing involved in the receipt or viewing of this website constitutes an attorney-client relationship. Certain lawyers of the Firm are "of counsel" and may (a) represent certain clients independent of the Firm and (b) practice law exclusively or partially in other States across the United States. Except to avoid conflicts and as required under the Rules of Professional Conduct and/or the Firm's fiduciary duties in any matter, the Firm does not monitor or supervise these independent practices outside of the ambit of the Firm.

All content included on this Web site, or incorporated by association, such as text, graphics, logos, button icons, and images of any kind, are used with permission or are the property of Mitchell J. Stein & Associates LLP, its strategic alliances, clients, or contributors. No portion may be reproduced in whole or in part without express permission. Any other use, including the reproduction, modification, distribution, transmission, republication, display or performance, of the content on this Site is strictly prohibited. We do not necessarily endorse, and are not responsible for, any content that may be accessed through this Web site.
