Prime Legal Plans LLC – Receivership

On Monday, September 24th, 2012, the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida entered a Temporary Restraining Order (“TRO”) which prohibits Prime Legal Plans LLC, together with the individuals who control and/or work for Prime Legal Plans LLC (collectively “Prime”) from seeking to or collecting any monies from consumers for mortgage assistance relief related to the subject of the TRO.

On Thursday, September 27th, 2012, the TRO was served and effected upon Prime by the “FTC”, who filed the lawsuit that led to entry of the TRO, and the court-appointed receiver (“Receiver”), who shut down Prime and took control of its property and assets. Among other things, the Receiver is charged with preserving all of Prime’s computer data, documents, or other records related to the subject of the TRO. The Receiver has also been charged with protecting the interests of the receivership defendants and potentially bringing lawsuits to recover on behalf of the victimized consumer. This process is just getting underway, and we encourage all consumers to visit our website for information and further, to contact us with any information if they feel they have been harmed as a receivership defendant, person or related party.
