Get a callblocker to end this nonsense. I have been using one for two months now and have 40 numbers bl I get one or two new robocalls a week now which I immediately block,but that is better than two or three e buy a good machine.Worth every penny!

A definite scam! Called the number, talked for about 5 minutes to one of the "operators". He claimed he was Jersey. I could hear other operators in the background. He had some little script he read off about how companies and find "violations" and threaten them to either clear off my account or pay for their violations. I any sort of company information or a website I could look at to make sure it was a legitimate company. He e out my email address or phone number.

Folks, the Do Not Call registry simply does not apply here. This is because the Do Not Call registry restricts harassing people. The people that are calling you from these American local phone numbers, are not in Ar Costa Rica, or Jamaica. How do they get these phone numbers to harass you? Simple, American based based products attached to US phone numbers, and those people who buy them from the US Telecom comp to locals/others in various areas. So the Chicago number calling you here, is a real Chicago number being from Chicago, geographically speaking.

You want to know to disrupt them? Contact your local State's Attorney's office and start complaining. The : the US based carrier hosting the phone number. That US Based Carrier fraud department will most likely and must act on the subpoena, and then turn off the number or maybe even the whole reseller and their ente FCC forces US based carriers to be responsible to whom they are selling the products/services with US base

Robo call stating legal action is being taken to eliminate credit card debt. Press 1 to be connected, or pn calling list. I pressed 1. A nice woman, by the name of ' Janet ' answered. I asked how she got my number screen. I asked if I have a business relationship with her company, she said no. The caller ID was 'Service M name was ' Credit Freedom '. I told her that I am on the do not call list, and that this phone call was bein breaking the FCC rules about calling people on the do not call list. I told her the FCC would be in touch with I

Have been receiving multiple calls every day for 2-3 wks. Caller ID say, "Service Message." Never leave ms Phone rang, I was asleep & waiting for my Dr to call. I answered without looking at CID. Was a guy, said y didn't feel like talking. He said will call next wk. Asked him who he was &why calling. Told me were calling card debt. They work with credit card issuers to remove all you owe, it doesn't go against you on credit rep from your records.I asked what company name & he said some type of legal aid. Told him not to call back. L landline in E. St. Louis, IL. Hope this helps.
