MJS & Associates

Fraud Alert: Numerous California consumers have reported to the firm that a persons named Matt Davis, Mass Litigation Alliance and Brookstone Law, are purporting to speak for the Firm. The Firm is unaffiliated in any way with these persons, and urges you to read the disclaimer set forth above and on the Home page of this website. As of March, 2011, it has been reported to the Firm that Davis and Mass Litigation Alliance and Brookstone Law have represented to consumers that the Firm has "shut down" one of its cases and is no longer accepting new clients in general. Meanwhile, the Firm was, at the time, (a) obtaining a favorable ruling in Federal Court on its mass joinder suit against Ally Bank and (b) filing another mass joinder suit in Florida against Bank of America, in which the Firm is co-counsel and sponsored by former State of Florida Fraud official Michael Riley, and (c) filing cases nationwide in behalf of aggrieved home owners. In the avoidance of any doubt, the Firm is actively taking cases nationwide and will continue to do so until each and every consumer is made whole for the banking fraud occurring throughout the last decade. The disturbing reports regarding Davis, et al., are now confirmed by an alleged email posting on Davis' or Mass Alliances' website as well as other websites -- apparently controlled by secret principals of Brookstone -- that were issued or maintained without the Firm's knowledge. This Website is the only website authorized by the Firm, as confirmed by the California State Bar (www.calbar.org). The Firm has reported this misconduct to the appropriate authorities. These reports are emblematic of the industry-wide problem of identity theft and fraud, which are damaging to consumers because the ultimate wrongdoers are the banks -- as the banks have now admitted in public press releases and in various public securities filings -- and lawyers with poor judgment and a reckless approach in representing consumers have no business interfering with the public's need for restitution and justice as a result of this bank-caused crises.

Important Notice: In view of the federal banking crisis, MJS & Associates is receiving massive intake of calls, solicitations, and inquiries. In this climate of "viral" news, MJS & Associates has seen or heard many opinions of others claiming to be involved with or associated with MJS & Associates. Some of the calls, solicitations, inquiries and opinions are legitimate homeowners seeking to protect themselves or legitimate associates of the Firm. Others are persons, acting without any authority, wishing to capitalize on what MJS & Associates started way back in March, 2009. Please be aware that no person is authorized to speak for MJS & Associates absent an authentic written instrument demonstrating their consultancy or relationship with MJS & Associates. Furthermore, MJS & Associates does not represent any person absent first undertaking a binding agreement to do so. The Firm strongly advises you to not accept imitations. First, verify the involvement with MJS & Associates and verify the information being given to you. In the event of any questions whatsoever, please contact the Firm and we will clear up any confusion.
