An Influential Firm

Qorvis specializes in corporate communications on national and international levels. Our clients have included Fortune 500 companies, as well as major international companies headquartered in Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

We help companies build and maintain strong reputations, manage difficult crisis issues, enhance shareholder value, and protect their interests in Washington, D.C.

Qorvis has performed every level of a communications campaign - from international awareness and education to national public affairs. We can do this because we are the best of big and small. We have the reach and resources of a large agency, with the quality and attention of a boutique firm.

Our ability to effectively identify and isolate our clients' issues on every level comes from our experience and full-service capabilities.

And our team includes individuals who have served at the highest levels of management in corporations and associations; in government, from Capitol Hill to the White House; and in the news media, from television to print. We pride ourselves on our legendary client service that achieves breakthrough results.
